It gives me great pleasure to offer a personal recommendation for Madison Lacilla. As the owner of @ The Corner Restaurant in Litchfield, Ct. I have worked with Madison almost every weekend for almost three years. Madison is, without a doubt, one of the best hostesses I have ever hired. Her job responsibilities include providing exemplary customer service as she greets customers, clearing tables, food running, and resetting.

Madison is completing college applications for a degree in marketing. She will certainly bring the skills she has gained in the restaurant business to this field of study. Madison has an ease and grace when greeting customers. She makes everyone feel welcome. When performing her job responsibilities, Madison can also effectively multi-task. We marvel at the way she constantly moves and surveys both the dining room and bar to make sure all customers are acknowledged. She is very personable and versatile with both customers and staff.

Madison has the skills needed to become successful in the college setting. She is an exemplary student and I would characterize her as a self starter. She is very organized and is able to maintain clear communication with both peers and adults. She will do everything that is expected of her to the best of her ability.

Currently Madison is an athlete, participating in three varsity sports at her high school. Madison is also involved with community service starting an adjunct organization called "The Little Possums." The Possum Queen Foundation helps families and individuals with medical care if they are experiencing financial hardship. This youth group raised $6000. for the cause. She understands that giving time and service to community organizations can be very rewarding.

I highly recommend Madison Lacilla and I believe she will flourish in the college of her choice.

Sincerely,

Jayne P Lanphear
